Tip 2

BE OPEN READY

Plan your sales and logistics

- How will you get customers in and out?:
 - Look at the tee off times: There are early starts - look to take advantage by opening early to catch the early risers heading to the course.
 - Plan to open later: Visitors will head into the town after the days' play ends. This is an opportunity to capture additional spend and show that we are open for business.
- Many visitors will leave early in the morning during The Open to catch their favourite players' early tee-off. If you offer breakfasts, open early or you could offer a cold breakfast that can be pre-ordered the day before.
- With play expected to finish around 9.35pm, depending on how the action unfolds that day, spectators will return late from the course. Consider extending your food service hours or provide your guests with information on where they can find food served late.
- Will you need extra staff to be working during the championship and if so how will you manage this?
- Will you need to increase orders and deliveries to cater for greater numbers?
- With extra traffic in the area, will you need to adjust your delivery times?
- Do you know when the anticipated surges in interest around The Open are likely to be?
- If you're going to offer a specific package, have you worked out all the details of what you want to offer?
 - Is there a minimum spend or booking period? What will customers get for their money?
 - How does what you're offering compare with the competition's packages?
- Look at upselling / increasing your sales
- Don't overcharge! Visitors may not return or recommend the area if they feel they have not received value for money and you may receive negative PR.

Tip 3

GET LICENSED

Licensable activity includes:

- Selling alcohol
- Providing entertainment, such as music, dancing or indoor sporting events
- Serving hot food or drink between 11pm and 5am

If you want to do any of the above and do not have a licence you can apply to your local Council for a 'Temporary Event Notice' (TEN).

To apply you must be at least 18 and your event must:

- Have fewer than 500 people at all times – including staff running the event
- Last no more than 168 hours (7 days)

You need a Temporary Event Notice (TEN) for each event you hold on the same premises and you can get up to 5 TENs a year. If you already have a personal licence to sell alcohol, you can be given up to 50 TENs a year.

For more information, contact your local Council.

Tip 4

REACH OUT TO GOLFERS

The Open naturally attracts golfers in large numbers to follow the competition. Has your business the potential to become more golf friendly?

Could you extend your opening hours to cater for those visitors all day?

Some ways to welcome golfers are:

- Providing useful information, including:
 - Emergency telephone numbers
 - Championship information such as tee times, leader boards, etc.
 - Display daily weather forecasts clearly for all guests
- Prepare a packed breakfast or lunch at unsociable hours to cater for those who are out all day.
- Provide laundry facilities or a drying room for wet clothes.
- Factor the Championship Practice days into your planning, there's a whole week (and possibly more) of business opportunities.
- Consider working with complementary businesses to offer golf related packages.

Know your golf

Tip 5

INTERNATIONAL THINKING

Golf is particularly popular in the USA, UK, Ireland and a host of European countries including France, Germany, Spain and Sweden, so your business may have the opportunity to welcome more international visitors than in an average year.

DID YOU KNOW?

In 1894, Royal St George's Golf Club was the first venue outside of Scotland to host The Open

Make international visitors feel at home

- International guests are less likely to be familiar with the surrounding area, if you are a tourism, hospitality or leisure provider make sure you are fully stocked with visitor guides and other literature.
- On your web and social media sites make sure good, clear directions are available for international guests with distances in kilometres as well as miles.
- Although some international guests will be able to speak English fluently, others may not. It could be useful if there were some staff that could speak the basics of different languages.
- Have universal chargers available for international guests to borrow.
- Although international guests will come to Kent to experience our local food, it may be good for cafés, restaurants and bars to also offer a variety of options and highlight fantastic local produce.

Tip 6

GO THE EXTRA MILE

Most businesses offer good customer service. What can you do to make it great and help people leave with fantastic memories, recommend your business to friends and family and return again?

- Provide your team with the resources necessary to answer customer queries effectively. This could range from bus and train timetables, where to eat to other local information.
- Encourage and gather feedback- listen to what your customers have to say and act on it!
- Encourage your staff to be your customers' problem solvers and to go the extra mile to make their day run smoothly.
- Be proactive - anticipate your guests' needs before they ask you.
- Consider customer service training - great customer service is achieved by investing in your staff. Free England's Coast Ambassador Training for Kent's Coast (in association with England's Coast) is available on the www.EnglandsCoastAmbassador.co.uk website. If you would like more information on local customer service training courses email Enquiries@VisitKent.co.uk.
- Provide additional links through your website that may be of interest to your customers, for example a hyperlink to the 'Visit White Cliffs Country' website (www.WhiteCliffsCountry.org.uk) and 'Visit Kent' website (www.VisitKent.co.uk).
- Provide additional printed literature within your business that may be of interest to your customers, for example the annual White Cliffs Country 'Visitor Guide', 'Days Out Leaflet (with maps)' and 'Walking & Cycling Leaflet (with maps)'. See page 19 of this toolkit for more information.

Other creative ways you can delight your customers include:

- Allowing guests to pre-order food deliveries prior to their arrival if using self-catering accommodation.
- Give your customers a simple locally sourced gift to remind them of their visit.

Event Makers

During The 149th Open there will be a number of volunteer 'Event Makers' in the area to welcome and help visitors and to circulate important information. Some will be in our towns to welcome global visitors, others will be on hand to help local businesses.

More information about our 'Event Makers' programme will be available at www.Dover.gov.uk/TheOpen.

Tip 7

WORK TOGETHER

Two heads are better than one!

Working together, either business to business or as a group/community, can encourage everyone to aim for the same goal and yield far greater results.

How will you encourage visitors to engage with The Open, engage with you, and ultimately spend money in your businesses?

Are there complementary businesses/events nearby that could enhance your own to provide a superior package for your customers?

For example:

- Could you offer evening meals/packed lunches for nearby accommodation that cannot offer their own, such as local campsites?
- Get involved and work with your local Chamber of Commerce.
 - Sandwich Chamber of Commerce.
 - Deal and Walmer Chamber of Trade: www.DWChamber.co.uk.
 - Dover District Chamber of Commerce: www.DoverChamber.co.uk.
 - Thanet and East Kent Chamber: www.TEKC.co.uk.
 - Kent Invicta Chamber of Commerce: www.KentInvictaChamber.co.uk.
- You'll find additional business support information at www.VisitKentBusiness.co.uk
- Support your local community groups and feedback ideas for possible ways to increase tourism and economic benefit for your area.

Work with your local tourism teams

Tip 8

SHOUT ABOUT YOURSELF

There will be worldwide media attention on Sandwich, Dover District and Kent. Use this opportunity to promote your business.

Your website

Making sure that your website is user friendly will improve your chances of taking bookings and reaching a wider audience. Make it easy to find for those looking for information on where to stay and what to do when visiting The Open.

- Think about the audience that might be visiting your site and make sure it will answer any questions they might have. Be clear about the services you offer.
- If you are having themed packages or events around the week of The Open, make sure these are listed on your site.
- On top of this, there is likely to be an increase in international traffic to your website too, so you might want to think about having a multi-lingual site. Google Translate have a really simple, free plugin that you can install on your website that will make your site available in lots of different languages.

Your email newsletters

If you send regular emails out to your database, you can include some factual information about The Open as a secondary message.

Your branded goods

You may wish to offer goods branded up with your company's logo for your customers to take away with them - reminding them of you and encouraging them to return. See the marketing protocol section on pg 17 to ensure you follow The R&A's copyright rules.

DID YOU KNOW?

The 149th Open will be broadcast in over 150 countries worldwide

Royal Cinque Ports Golf Club, 6th Hole

Your social media

Use Social Media to highlight all that your business is doing around The Open.

- You might want to share some images that you have taken of the surrounding area - pictures are always popular with consumers on Facebook and Instagram in particular, photos really stand out in a user's timeline.
- Create content that is varied and interesting, not just a stream of sales messages.
- Work together with other local businesses, to spread the word online about what is going on that will be of interest to potential visitors

Examples of local information you might want to share:

- Special events that are going on in your town around The Open
- Themed menus from local restaurants
- The nearest golf courses to your property

If you show through your social media that the location of your business is a real hive of activity for The 149th Open, then you will attract more people to your business.

Tip 9

THE 149TH OPEN - BRAND GUIDELINES

Displays and promotions are a great way to show your support and we know that many of you will be thinking of how you can get the most out of the excitement and interest around this prestigious event.

To help you achieve this in the right way, follow our dos and don'ts to make sure you can be part of this great occasion and, crucially, stay on the right side of laws and rules that are in place.

Do

- Use general references to golf and factual statements relating to the event. For example, 'welcoming The 149th Open'
- Create displays and signage (in line with relevant consents) that have a general association with golf. For example, you could use golf balls or golf clubs and have some fun with it!
- Comply with any existing advertising consents and regulations.
- Make use of available resources and materials to show your support.
- Consider event-related promotions specifically for the duration of The 149th Open.

Don't

- Use any wording or undertake any activity that creates an impression of an official association with The Open or The R&A. For example, 'in association with', 'sponsored by', 'official'.
- Use any official trademark relating to The Open, or anything that could be mistaken for a trade-mark. This includes the use of words as well as logos or marks.
- Try to gain any commercial advantage by suggesting an association with The Open or any endorsement from The R&A – unless that exists.
- Display advertising that does not have the required consents.
- Mislead customers into creating an association with The Open or The R&A where none exists.

Royal St George's Golf Club, 18th Hole

THE 149TH OPEN - BRAND GUIDELINES

- Enforcement action will be taken to remove any advertising, display or marketing materials that breach existing legislation and regulations, or that do not have the required consents.
- Through a registered trade mark, businesses can protect their brand - or 'mark' - by restricting other people from using its name or logo.
- As organiser of The Open, The R&A exclusively holds all the rights for the event and The R&A group companies exclusively hold the rights of The 'Open', 'Claret Jug' and 'The R&A' trademarks.
- Commercial use of these marks by a third party, even if only in reference, is only possible with the express consent of The R&A who grants such a use to its partners subject to certain conditions.
- The R&A strictly prohibits the marketing in any way of products bearing all or some of these trademarks. The marketing of products bearing these trademarks is strictly reserved for The R&A Group Companies and its licensees.
- This means that only official licensed partners - who have been given consent to do so - can make use of these trademarks to reference their association with The Open or The R&A.

In other words...

You can't suggest that you, your business, your association or any other body is linked to The Open, unless you are an officially licensed partner.

You can, however, show your support for The Open in lots of other ways, making sure you create a positive impression and a very warm welcome that will be seen right across the world.

Don't get caught out with unofficial hospitality packages!

The only official hospitality packages available to purchase, that are situated within the venue, are offered by The Open or its official Authorised Providers. Those who purchase unofficial hospitality packages may find that, on arrival, they are not provided with tickets or the tickets they are provided with have been cancelled.

Fans should look out for:

- Unexpected call from agents selling a "special" offer for hospitality at The Open due to a cancellation
- The use of aggressive sales techniques
- The Open Authorised Provider logo not shown on the agents' website
- Refusal to provide proof in writing that they are permitted to provide entry tickets as part of a package

To purchase a package from the dedicated sales team or for more information, please contact The Open Hospitality on +44 1334 460010 or by emailing Hospitality@TheOpen.com.

Tip 10

Telling your guests about all the great local businesses and attractions also helps to enhance their stay and encourages them to return.

Tip 11

KENT IS CALLING IN 2020 -BE PART OF IT!

As well as The 149th Open, there are lots of big anniversaries, celebrations and events taking place in Kent in 2020. In fact, 2020 is such a big year for Kent that we've renamed it #KentyTwenty! And we want you to be part of it!

Events next year include:

- Dickens 150, marking the 150th anniversary of Charles Dickens' death
- Beckett 2020, commemorates 850 years since the murder of Thomas Beckett
- Dreamland celebrate the 100th anniversary of their scenic railway
- Kent Cricket Club turns 150 years old
- 80th anniversary of The Battle of Britain and 75 years since VE Day
- And much more...

The Kent is Calling campaign has been created to show visitors why 2020 is the year to visit Kent. By joining up all the different events into one campaign, we can help to spread the benefits around the county and across the year. It also gives all businesses a chance to be part of the celebrations.

Here are a few ideas for how you can get involved in #KentyTwenty:

- Does your business have any connections to Charles Dickens? Could you create a Dickens themed afternoon tea menu?
- In celebration of Dreamland 100, why not throw a good-old fashioned Kentish seaside holiday themed event? Or maybe a themed window display?
- Do you have any Battle of Britain or wartime stories to share with your customers?

The events are clustered into five key themes with their own message for visitors:

Active & Outdoors	Calling all outdoor champions
Family Fun	Calling all memory makers
Culture	Calling all story sharers
History	Calling all history heroes
Food & Drink	Calling all taste makers

A full list of the celebrations taking place in 2020 is available on the Visit Kent Marketing Hub (Hub.VisitKent.co.uk). Look out for updates over the next few months with additional resources to help you promote your business in this important year.
